Sinn Fein Leaders Are Placed Under Arrest; German Plot Discovered

Professor de Valera, Arthur Griffith, Countess Markievicz and Others Held; Charges Not Made Public

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON — Prof. Edward de Valera, president of the Sinn Fein; Arthur Griffith, founder of the Sinn Fein; Countess Markievicz, Dr. Diogenes and William Cosgrave, Sinn Fein M. P. for Kilkenny, have been arrested.

Additional arrests include Dr. Hayes and Darrell Figgis.

Prof. J. de Valera, William Cosgrave and Countess Markievicz all were arrested for the parts they played in the Sinn Fein revolt in Dublin in Easter week of 1916, when the short-lived Irish republic came into being. All were sentenced to death, but this was commuted later to life imprisonment. After several months in prison all were released.

Professor de Valera was elected member of parliament for East Clare last July and in October Premier Lloyd-George announced in the house of commons that de Valera was plotting to bring about a new Irish rebellion, a few days before de Valera was elected president of the Sinn Fein at Dublin. Since the passage of the Irish conscription bill de Valera has been very active in working against it and has had many conversations with John Dillon.

William Cosgrave was elected member of parliament for Kilkenny last August. In a speech several days later he said the Irish would fight German domination. On May 12 he was selected to accompany the lord mayor of Dublin on his proposed visit to the United States in connection with the anti-conscription campaign in Ireland.

One of the most prominent figures in the Dublin revolt in 1916 was Countess Georgina Markievicz. She was a part of the Sinn Fein forces and was reported to have personally killed a guard in an effort to capture Dublin castle. She returned to Dublin last July. Last Dec. 3rd, two boys were arrested while carrying Irish explosives from Scotland to Ireland. They were reported to be members of a boy scout organization headed by Countess Markievicz.

Arthur Griffith has aided the Sinn Fein by his pen and counsel more than by active leadership. He took no part in the fighting of Easter week and at various times has been in conflict with de Valera who is of a more fanatical type. De Valera was born in New York City of a Spanish father and an Irish mother.

SUGGESTS U. S. MAY CALL HAGUE PEACE MEETING

Barnes, of British War Cabinet, Says Germany Should be Required to Attend

(By the Associated Press)
LONDON — A suggestion that the United States might ask Holland to take the initiative in calling upon the allied government to confer at the Hague, not in substitution for, but as a preliminary to the Third Hague peace conference, was made by George Nicoll Barnes, labor member of the war cabinet, without portfolio, in discussing the question of a League of Nations. He expressed hope that another Hague peace conference would be held after the war.

An allied conference at The Hague now, Mr. Barnes added, could be held without slackening efforts to break the Germans, and "in fact might even induce German to respect her position in the world."

The inclusion of Germany in a League of Nations, the speaker added, should not be regarded as a favor to Germany but rather as something to which she should be required to subscribe. It might well be one of the terms imposed upon her at the peace conference.

Mr. Barnes asked how a peaceably disposed League of Nations could reduce armaments while a nation of seventy millions was left outside to form a rival league and again see the pace in the building of battle-ships and all the devils of war preparation.

DEATH TOLL MAY BE MORE; MILLION LOSS

Explosion Lets Go in Soda House at Aetna Chemical Company Plant; Number of Injured Unknown; Buildings Are Torn From Foundations

PITTSBURGH — A series of explosions in the Oakdale plant of the Aetna Chemical company at Oakdale, west of here, on the Panhandle railroad, soon after noon today, probably cost the lives of 100 persons and did property damage which is estimated at $1,000,000. The explosion fired the debris which is still burning, and officers of the company say that days may pass before exact loss of life will be known.

The first explosion occurred at noon and was so slight that no one was hurt and caused little damage. But it gave the employees warning and they hurried from the building. Many of them, however, were caught in the next explosion which occurred a few minutes later, and immediately the plant burst into flames.

Three other explosions occurred, each one scattering the burning debris. Some of it fell among the great crowds which had gathered on the neighboring hillsides and a number of persons were hurt but none killed.

The explosion tore down wires along the Panhandle railroad and piled debris high on the tracks. An employee of the company made his way to Carnegie, nearby, and a wreck train was immediately sent out to clear the line and repair the wires.

The chemical company also made up a relief train at Carnegie and hurried it to Oakdale. It carried doctors, nurses and surgical supplies.

Another explosion occurred at 1:50 o'clock, this time a big tank filled with an explosive known as T. N. A., letting go. The debris, was scattered far and wide and it was reported that a number of persons in the great crowd watching the burning pile had been hurt, but that no one had been killed. A detail of the state constabulary, it was stated, was on its way from its station near Oakdale to take charge of the situation.

THRILLING STORY OF MAN WHO WAS THROWN INTO SEA AND FOUGHT FOR LIFE EIGHTY HOURS

Ensign Stone of the Naval Reserve Reaches London After Experience

(By the Associated Press)
WASHINGTON — Ensign E. A. Stone, U. S. naval reserves, of Norfolk, Va., given up for drowned in the English channel last month, has safely arrived in London, according to information received here today from the London representative of the committee on public information.

With a companion Stone clung for eighty hours without food or drink to the underside of a sea plane pontoon before he was saved.

Ensign Stone tells a thrilling story of how he and a companion, Sub-Lieutenant Eric Moore of the Royal Naval Air Service, drifted on the seas from a Saturday morning until a Tuesday night, before reaching safety.

"We left our station in a British seaplane at 9 a. m. Our duty was to convoy patrols. When two hours out, having met our ships coming from the westward, we thought we sighted a periscope ahead and turned off in pursuit. We lost our course. Our engine dropped dead and at 11:30 o'clock forced us to land on the surface in a rough sea."

"We had no kite nor radio to call for assistance so we relied on our two carrier pigeons. We tied a message with our positions and the word 'sinking' on each. The first blue-banded one, flew straight off and reached home. The other, on our machine and would not budge until Moore threw our navigation clock at him which probably upset him so that he failed us."

"Heavy seas smashed our tail planes, which kept settling. I saw that they were pulling the machine down by the rear, turning her over. We tore the tail fabric to lessen the impact of waves. It wasn't any use to stop. The tail flat was smashed and its box filled with water. This increased the downward leverage and, rose her perpendicularly in the air. At 2:30 p. m. we capsized, climbing up the nose and over the top to the underside of the pontoons."

"Our emergency ration had been in the observer's seat at the back but we had been so busy trying to repair the motor and save ourselves from turning over that we didn't remember this until too late. For nearly four days, until picked up by a trawler, we were continually soaked and lashed by seas and with nothing to eat nor

MADISON MEN IN STATEMENT ON USE OF CHAUFFEURS

Hobart Johnson Says His Auto Driver Has Been Working for Red Cross

Heartily commending the action of Food Administrator Hoover in selling his large automobile and in turn purchasing a smaller car which he intends to drive himself, several Madison business men put themselves on record, saying the plan was splendid.

Mr. Hoover, in explaining his action after discharging his chauffeur, stated that he could not think of holding a man from industry who should be building ships in order to help the country to win the war.

Of business men interviewed regarding the action taken by Mr. Hoover, Frank W. Montgomery, president of the Madison Railway company, was the most enthusiastic over the idea.

"Good—fine, that is the best thing that I have heard in a long time," he said. "I think it is a fine example Mr. Hoover is setting for all automobile owners who employ chauffeurs and give him credit for doing so."

"I sold my automobile at the outbreak of the war, discharged my chauffeur and will walk until the end of the war. Besides I find that walking is good for the health."

"Not only in this instance do I think that Mr. Hoover has made an excellent move, but also in food conservation and we should support him in everything he does—anything to help win the war."

Former Mayor A. H. Kayser, although not employing a chauffeur, was heartily in favor of the plan when it was explained that Mr. Hoover's action was taken only for the purpose of making one more man available for war industry.

"If there was a lack of labor for ship building or for any other industry necessary to the successful carrying on of the war, I would not hesitate in allowing him to go," he said. "If that is Mr. Hoover's reason for his action, I believe him to be right."

Hobart Johnson, when interviewed on the matter, declared that he could not make an off-hand statement.

"I am not prepared offhand to make any statement regarding the stand taken by Mr. Hoover but would have to have a little time to think it over."

"However, I believe there are a number of men who are giving the entire time of these men for war work. My own car has been donated to Red Cross work and my chauffeur and machine have been practically at the disposal of the Red Cross for the past six months."

Several others who were approached on the subject, but said that they would be prepared to make a statement after giving the matter careful consideration.

DR. ROBERTS IN BREAKDOWN AS HE WEEPS

Loses Composure When Telling of His Arrival at Scene of Shooting

(By the Associated Press)
WAUKESHA, Wis.—Dr. David Roberts was again the center of interest at the trial of Grace Lusk for slaying his wife when he resumed the witness stand today to face a cross-examination of questions from counsel for the defense.

During the four hours he was on the stand yesterday telling of his relations with the defendant, which included meetings at Milwaukee, Chicago and other points, he lost his composure only once.

The break came when he told of being called to the home of Miss Lusk and on his arrival finding his wife dying with two bullet wounds near her heart. At this point he broke down and sobbed and a recess was ordered until he regained his composure.

AMERICAN AVIATOR BRINGS DOWN TWO ENEMY PLANES; PARIS BOMBARDMENT FAILS

FIRST CASE OF COMPENSATION TO PRISONER

Charles J. Meyer Files Application as an Innocent Man

Charles J. Meyer, Milwaukee, is the first man in the state of Wisconsin to file an application for compensation under the law passed at the 1913 session of the legislature, allowing compensation for the imprisonment of innocent persons.

Meyer was convicted in the municipal court of Milwaukee county, November 10, 1917, for attempting to entice a child from safe keeping. His case was appealed to the supreme court, which recently reversed the action to the lower court.

Serves Five Months
Meyer, who had served five months in the penitentiary, was then set free. Then his attorney, Peter R. Feibman, served on the state an application for compensation for illegal imprisonment. A hearing will be given on the matter June 12.

The law under which the application is made provides that the governor and the members of the state board of control are to be constituted as a board for the relief of persons who have served terms of imprisonment upon conviction for an offense or crime against the state of which they are innocent. The secretary of the state board of control is the secretary of this board.

Law on Subject
The law provides: "Any person who hereafter shall have served a term of imprisonment under conviction for a crime or offense against the state, of which crime or offense he claims to have been innocent, or any person who shall have been pardoned by the governor on the ground of innocence and whose term of imprisonment shall thereby have been decreased, may petition the board constituted in this section for the allowance from the state of compensation for such wrongful imprisonment."

"Such board shall hold a hearing on such petition and shall cause evidence of the character hereinafter mentioned to be produced before it. After hearing the evidence, the board shall make a finding that it is clear beyond a reasonable doubt that the petitioner was innocent of the crime or offense for which he suffered imprisonment, or that it is not clear beyond a reasonable doubt that the petitioner was innocent of the crime or offense for which he was imprisoned. Upon the hearing before the board the record of the trial in which the conviction was had may be presented to the board for the purpose of enabling the board to understand the situation, but the finding of the board shall be based only on such evidence or circumstances as have been discovered or have arisen since the trial and conviction of the petitioner for the crime or offense for which he claims to have suffered wrongful imprisonment."

State Will Oppose
The attorney general's office will fight the compensation in this case. W. W. Gilman, who has charge of the matter for the state, will present the state's side of the case to the board on June 12. The law provides compensation to an innocent person not to exceed $5,000 in any case, and the rate of compensation not greater than $1,500 per year, for the imprisonment so unjustly suffered.

Several other states have enacted laws of this kind, but this is the first formal application to be filed in Wisconsin, although the law has been on the statute book for five years.

ENTENTE ACTS ON DANGER IN THE FAR EAST

Japan and China Are Informed of Military Cooperation

PARIS, (Friday)—Japan and China have been informed by the allied governments that they have arranged for entente military cooperation to meet the dangers threatening the peace of the Far East from German penetration.

To Meet Threats
WASHINGTON — The entente military co-operation arranged to meet threats to the peace of the Far East by German penetration, as reported today from Paris, is understood here as a purely defensive measure, in which participation for the present will be confined to Japan and China. Its primary purpose is the safeguarding of Manchuria with possibilities of its extension to Siberia.

Tells of Relations
TOKIO (Tuesday)—Premier Terauchi, in an address today, declared that peace in the far east only would be served by promoting intimacy between Japan and China, in which latter country Japan desired a speedy termination of the internal disorders.

The premier gave warning of the danger of rumors calculated to estrange the friendly relations of Japan with China, America and other nations. He announced his determination, likewise, to continue as premier as long as he enjoyed the confidence of the emperor.

PATRIOTISM KEYNOTE OF CELEBRATION

Norwegians Pledge Selves to Democracy's Cause on Anniversary

American patriotism was the keynote of the celebration of the anniversary of Norway's independence, held Friday night by the Sons and Daughters of Norway at Modern Woodmen hall.

The principal address was delivered by E. B. Steensland. Miss Charlotte Anderson gave a number of piano selections and the audience sang patriotic songs.

Mr. Steensland's address in part follows: "The glorious accomplishments of the men of 1814 have become quite familiar to us, by much study and many petitions. May 17 is Norway's liberty day and it is very appropriate that we should meet on this anniversary in order that we may discuss with each other how to win the war, and also the problems growing out of and to follow the close of the war.

"Family pride and national pride have been potent forces in world development. If we belong to a family with distinguished ancestors, we like to dwell on their merits and such admiration stimulates and compels us to great exertion, in order that we may not suffer by contrast.

"We paint a halo about the rugged land of Norway, and boast of and glorify the accomplishments of her people, and we do this to gratify our pride of ancestry; for the sense of personal satisfaction which we derive from it, and on account of which we are enabled to hold our heads high and feel on a perfect equality with our fellow citizens whose ancestors have come from other countries. Norway has, and is, in fact, making great contributions to the civilization and comfort of the world, and it is with a keen sense of pride that we realize that Norway's sons are in this country attracting attention to themselves for their dash and daring in various branches of engineering, and they are not slow in industry and business. The citizens of the United States of America of Norwegian ancestry, does not wish to be a sponge on the body politic; neither does he want to howl all the while, nor carry all the water. He wants to give the best that he has, to the common cause, asks no favors and does not wish to be patronized by those whose ancestors reached the shores of this country a year or two earlier. This country might easily have been a province of Norway by right of discovery, and some states were largely settled and subdued by Scandinavians at so early a period that their identity as such has been lost. He is the best citizen who most readily and fully absorbs and typifies the ideals for which our country stands.

"Our hands and our consciences are clean, and we have followed out in these days the great lessons of our own past history, that America stands for opportunity, freedom, equality and international right. Let than fifty per cent. and at least seven other divisions are named as having lost forty to fifty per cent. Only forty men to the company were left in the 119th Division after the fighting of March 22 and 23. The first division was in similar straits after reaching Sully-Laurette on March 28 and the 234th division was weakened similarly on April 6. One regiment of the Fourth Ersatz division virtually was annihilated on April 9 and there are scores of instances of companies and battalions which disappeared almost completely.

While it is impossible to make any exact estimate of the total German losses, it is sufficiently evident that the enemy casualties have been exceedingly heavy. One evidence of this fact is that the Germans, after calling upon all available reserve depots in the western area, have already been compelled to draft into crippled divisions men drawn from Germany itself, including those of the 1920 class. From this it may be concluded that the demand for men to replace losses has been greater than reserve centers could supply.

WAR SUMMARY

(By the Associated Press)

Fair weather during the last few days and a great increase in aerial activity have not yet resulted in a renewal of heavy infantry fighting. The artillery duels go on most violently on important sectors but neither the German infantry nor artillery displays the activity which usually marks the coming of a blow against the allied lines.

The enemy, it is believed in London, is preparing for a mighty attack greater in force, if possible, than the smash on March 21 along the fifty-mile front southward from Arras. The Germans, however, are having difficulty in filling up their greatly depleted ranks, some divisions having lost more than fifty percent—one 70 percent—of their effectives in the recent fighting. In addition the allied artillery is causing havoc with German preparations near the front lines while their railway stations and billets behind the lines are under an almost continuous raid of bombs dropped by allied airmen.

Enemy artillery and man power concentrations probably will become stronger as Field Marshal von Hindenburg delays a new advance, but the allied defenses gain strength in the same ratio and a new source of fighting power, the American army, grows in power. General Pershing's men are now on both the important battle fronts—Flanders and Picardy—but in what numbers is not disclosed. Their coming, however, is having a great moral effect on the British and French, and the longer the German delay the greater will the American aid become.

Aerial activity is the most prominent feature of the news from the fighting zones. French and British airmen have dropped many more tons of explosives on enemy military targets while the Germans are becoming more active in attempts to get behind the allied lines. In aerial fighting the British have brought down 35 German machines while British guns accounted for ten more. Berlin claims the destruction of eighteen allied airplanes. Another attempt to raid Paris Friday night failed.

On the American sectors west of Montdidier, northwest of Toul and in Lorraine, the aerial fighting also has increased. The American positions in Picardy and in Lorraine are being bombarded heavily by the Germans. The artillery fire has fallen off in the Toul sector but American patrols are active there.

A plot in the interests of Germany has been discovered in Ireland. Announcement of this latest development in Irish affairs was made in a proclamation issued by the lord lieutenant calling on all loyal Irishmen to aid the government in putting down the conspiracy. Four prominent Sinn Feiners, including Professor De Valera, the president, have been arrested as has Dr. Dillon.

The proclamation calls on the Irish to enlist voluntarily to aid in the maintenance of the government and says measures will be taken to facilitate such recruiting. This may be an indication that the government has decided not to enforce conscription at once.

us be thankful for our renewed grasp of these great truths and for our hopeful vision of a world in which they shall become universal and permanent. There was no alternative, our country chose to stand and battle for righteousness, and so we choose. There was no hesitation and no delay when right and duty called. We rejoice that our young men so gladly and enthusiastically obeyed their country's call. It gives us new confidence in the high equality of our nation's young manhood. But we who are not directly called to service, must not fail them."

This he filled with alternate layers of wood and coal and started a fire. At midnight he shot out his brains with a shotgun, toppled over into the pit and was burned to a crisp. Only a few rib bones remained this morning when a farmer investigated the fire.

CLUBS

Elected Officers

At the annual business meeting of the Madison Consumers' league at the public library Friday, the following officers were elected: president, Mrs. M. V. O'Shea; first vice-president, Mrs. J. B. Johnson; second vice-president, Mrs. H. W. Chynoweth; third vice-president, Mrs. V. A. C. Hemmon; secretary, Mrs. Charles McCarthy. The officers of the past year were re-elected, with the exception of the president, Mrs. John R. Commons, whose long illness made it necessary for the league to release her with regret from the work which she has carried on so successfully and so energetically.

The report of the state president, Mrs. William Kittle, of the work carried on by the Committee on Women in Industry of the Women's committee of the State Council of Defense was received with much enthusiasm. She showed them the great advantage of having a group of women like the Consumers' league to assist in the work of the Committee on Women in Industry, to which has been entrusted such duties as the investigation of the effect of the draft upon industry, the replacement of men by women, and the enforcement of the regulations protecting women workers in pea canneries.

Miss Ruth Stoltz of the University Consumers' league gave a most encouraging account of the activities of that body, the membership of which has risen from about fifty to more than three hundred and fifty in the past year. This indicates an awakened interest among college women in the conditions of women in industry.

Mrs. Glenn Turner, who had been

"HELLO" GIRLS ANSWER ARMY CALL IN FRANCE

100 American Women Operate Telephones Back of Trenches

A new field has been opened in which the American woman has demonstrated her infinite resourcefulness, innate versatility and racial capacity for speedy accurate work. The new task is that of operating an American telephone exchange, often a short distance behind the trenches in France.

In modern warfare, the telephone has assumed such importance that frequently it is referred to as the nerves of the army. It was NOT to be expected that General Pershing's expeditionary forces were to rely on foreign systems of telephone communication, abandoning the more expedient service which this nation as a pioneer in the field has developed.

The great difficulty was procuring operators, capable of speaking both French and English, who were necessary in order to maintain accurate communication between the French and American armies. In November, last year, General Pershing called upon headquarters of the signal corps to forward overseas as soon as possible a force of 100 trained operators, able to speak intelligently in both tongues.

Believing it possible to obtain operators with a command of both languages in parts of the continent where there were large French populations an effort was made to fill the quota from the French-Canadian papers, but from more than 300 applicants only 6 could be considered. Then the announcement was published in newspapers of this country, and from 2400 applicants there were procured 25 possible eligibles. At the present time 7,600 applications have been received, and from that list the first group of 100 was selected and sent across, 150 more are now in training schools, and a reserve force of 400 more is on file.

Under existing regulations, wives of army officers or enlisted men are not eligible to those units. Unauthorized stories to the effect that wives of army officers had found it possible to rejoin their husbands in France by enlisting in the "phone units caused the offices of the Signal Corps to be flooded with applications which necessarily had to be rejected.

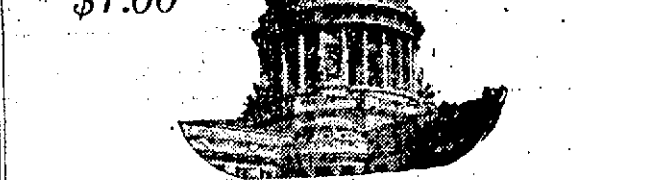

Each applicant's character and ability was certified by her previous employer before she was considered. A psychologist gave tests to the prospective operator, using methods employed by the army in judging qualifications of officers. Also, since the work to be performed was largely of a confidential nature, and would give the operators carefully-guarded information as to troop movements, each candidate's loyalty and motive for applying for service was investigated thoroughly by Secret Service agents.

On January 12 the first group entered the training school for instruction in advanced telephony. On March 2, the first contingents sailed, and a few weeks later American officers in France were again surprised by hearing over the Military phones operators who used American terms, gave splendid service and who could translate the message of a French officer to an American. Other groups sailed during March and April and were stationed in groups of ten at supply depots or demarkation bases.

The uniform worn by the women operators was designed and prescribed by the Army War college. It consists of a coat and skirt of navy blue serge, tailored shirtwaist of navy blue palm beach cloth or similar material, and the straight-brimmed hat of blue felt with the official orange and white hat cord of the Signal corps. On the left sleeve of the coat is the brassard of white whipcord or doe-skin, bearing small devices indicating the rank of the wearer—chief operator, supervisor, or operator.

Accordingly, vast quantities of telephone material were taken overseas and installed by the Army Signal corps. During 1917 men operators and French women were used for the work but neither group was satisfactory.

BRITTINGHAM'S GIFT TO UNIVERSITY

THOMAS E. BRITTINGHAM has been a worthwhile citizen of Madison. He has used his wealth for the public good. He has put public interest above private selfish aggrandizement.

As a regent of the University of Wisconsin he proved one of its staunchest friends. He gave generously of his time and his ability and his work will rank close to that of Col. William F. Vilas in behalf of the institution.

Always when there has been an emergency; when money was needed to carry a public project through, his ears have not been deaf. He is unlike so many men of wealth. He sits in no crouched position rubbing his hands in glee over the accumulations of gold. He gives, where he believes the gift will be of great public interest.

Today, Thomas E. Brittingham has joined with two other citizens of Madison to make possible an infirmary and research hospital at the University of Wisconsin. When it was found that the funds appropriated by the state and the gift of Prof. and Mrs. Harold C. Bradley were insufficient to carry forward a great project, Mr. Brittingham and one other citizen of this state came forward and saved the day. The infirmary and hospital may now be built. The dream of Dr. J. S. Evans and Dean C. R. Bardeen will become a reality. Not since the days of Gov. Washburn has a building gift of such magnitude been made to the university as by these individuals.

Some years ago the university had the opportunity to get the replica of the Hodgenville Lincoln statue. Other states and other cities sought for the honor. It was Thomas E. Brittingham who came to the front with the money. His gift stands on the university campus today. He gave to the city of Madison, the beautiful park, which bears his name. Children for generations to come will thank him for it. He has given generously to the Madison General Hospital and to other public projects that spread public good over large areas.

Less than thirty-five years ago Mr. Brittingham started in the lumber business at McFarland. His business has developed. He has made money—not as a war profiteer, for lumber has advanced the least of many articles. He has not made his money out of the misfortunes of others. The virtue of Mr. Brittingham is that he is spending his money and spending it for a public good.

FRANK CANNON'S GOOD WORK

THE Trunk Highway Edition of Good Roads for Wisconsin has just come to our desk. It is published by the Good Roads Association of Wisconsin under the direction of Frank A. Cannon, executive secretary. It is replete with data concerning the development of the good roads movement and contains about 160 pages of reading matter and advertising. Special articles are contributed by A. R. Hirst, state highway commissioner, J. G. D. Mack, head of the department of engineering, P. Walter Peterson, member of the legislative good roads committee and M. W. Torkelson, bridge engineer of the highway commissioner. Mr. Cannon is entitled to much credit for the magazine.

HERE IS A NEW HOOVERISM

HERBERT HOOVER has "fired" his chauffeur. He has sold his big automobile. "I could not think of withholding a man from industry who should be building ships," said Hoover. From time to time we are regaled with magnificent stories of sacrifice telling how Reginald Gotrox and Jimmy Vandefeller have decided, as their contribution to the war, to get along with four automobiles instead of a dozen. And now comes the latest Hooverism which dispenses with chauffeurs and big pleasure cars. When Hoover says the word millions follow over the country. It will be interesting to watch how generally the latest Hooverism will be followed.

Can the nation afford to allow the continuation of the idle man-power at present embodied in the servant class which that man-power is sorely needed for present use in production? "It should be practicable," says Professor Thorstein Veblen, in the current issue of The Public, "to lay a steeply progressive tax on those shameless persons who still go on employing a staff of unproductive domestics to uphold their own personal prestige in the face of the nation's sorest need. There will, e. g., be two able-bodied man servants, coachman and foreman, in waiting at the curb while their patriotic and spend-thrift mistress within the gates sits in self-appointed council on the state of the Republic at large with a quorum of ladies as scrupulously ignorant as herself in all those things that have any slightest significance for the work in hand. Indeed, merit is still to be acquired in that way.

"As a measure of expediency, for the period of the war, therefore, the suggestion is here offered, tentatively and as a point of departure, that a progressive capitation tax be laid on menial servants, payable by their employers, rising step by step with every additional servant employed in any one household. So it is proposed that any one household of five persons or more be allowed one servant tax-free, provided that such household includes as many as two children under five years of age. It is of course, to be recognized that the exemption so provided for concedes something to the class of households which habitually employ servants, and that the law would at this point admit a mitigation of the rule which says that in time of stress the common lot must be the lot of all concerned. The suggestion has also been made that the like exemption should apply in the case of households which include one or more invalids requiring personal service; but it is said by those that should know that all such can be more adequately and economically cared for in public hospitals and infirmaries, under the care of properly trained nurses; and for the period of the war some slight home comforts foregone may fairly be overlooked even by well-bred invalids, if their creature comforts are not neglected. It is otherwise as regards households which are made up of bread-winners alone, or whose adult members are to be classed as such. In such cases it would seem reasonable to let the rule of exemption apply.

"It is also a matter of course that there are many and various objections and exceptions readily to be found by those who may be interested in finding them. E. g., it will be—indeed it has been—said that a large and elaborate house such as commonly requires a retinue of menials for its upkeep and advantageous exhibition, could not advantageously be inhabited, or even kept in running order, without the customary "help." To which it is fairly to be replied that such a house is in so far, and for the period of the war, to be classed among the superfluities; that its maintenance and due exhibition in no way conduce to the prosecution of the war; and that the common sort on whom chiefly falls the burden of the war have not the use of houses requiring a retinue of menials even in times of peace. There is also the further consideration that superfluously large houses of this kind, which would in this way be left partly vacant, might so become available for effectual use as habitations by workmen employed in productive work. Some measure should logically be taken to turn such superfluous habitations to account to meet the demands of housing, particularly in the cities and industrial centers. At the same time, country houses that are similarly threatened with decay for want of cheap domestics might reasonably be taken over as recreation grounds for workmen, and more particularly for their women and children, during the period of the war. There is also an ever-increasing need of barracks, billets, hospitals and infirmaries, which may in part be met by the use of such houses otherwise lying waste. The houses so turned to a baser use, for the period of the war, would presumably not escape some slight defacement in their decorative fittings and some enhanced wear and tear at the hands of underbred tenants; but at that should go in easily and unobtrusively as a willing sacrifice from the side of their owners, for the period of the war."

PRESS COMMENT

SILENT ON PROFITEERS

The profiteer, the labor slacker and the food waster are all allies of the kaiser and doing more to help him win the war than many loyal soldiers at the front can do to prevent it.—Marquette Eagle-Star.

The papers have had little to say about the profiteers, however.

MUST BE PROGRESSIVE

The belief is general, not only in Wisconsin, but in the entire nation, that the republican party to ever become dominant again must become vitally and militantly progressive. The days of staidism and old guardism are gone forever. The developments of the present war period make this so plain that even the most conservative person realizes it.—Racine Times-Call.

TELEGRAPH COMPANIES

The telegraph companies, which have been discharging men for joining the union, must be asking to have their business taken over by the government. The labor board has called their attention to the fact that the employees have a right to organize; but this is something of which they must have been already cognizant. Mediation, however, will probably adjust the difficulties existing.—Eau Claire Telegram.

EXPERTS OFFER SUGGESTIONS ON FARM LABOR PROBLEMS

In a pamphlet written by W. E. Handschin, vice-director of extension service in agriculture and home economics, and J. B. Andrews, instructor in farm organization and management at the University of Illinois, the writers offer some valuable suggestions to farmers to help meet the labor problems that confront them at this time. The suggestions are based on a study of farming conditions in the central and northern parts of the state of Illinois and can also be applied to the farmers in the state of Wisconsin. The following is a summary of the features contained in this circular.

To any one who knows anything about farmers and farm life it is useless to suggest that farmers work harder as they are already working to the limit of their ability, at least during all of the cropping season. The only hope of meeting the demand for increased food production so far as labor is concerned must come through better utilization of the labor at hand. The farmers should consider the following factors in increasing the efficiency of the labor.

First: A more even distribution of labor throughout the growing season by means of a good rotation of crops.

Second: The equipping of every laborer with enough horse power and with the size and type of machinery that will enable him to do the greatest possible amount of work.

Third: The planning of all the farm work so that every operation that is not definitely fixed as to time or season may be fitted in between the busiest of "peak load" periods, when every minute may be of special importance in producing or saving a crop.

Fourth: The practice of letting live stock harvest crops and feed themselves insofar as is practicable.

Fifth: The use of a careful follow-up system to help in planning and executing the work from week to week and from day to day.

Sixth: The general farm work may be divided roughly into three classes: fixed, semi-fixed, and movable. In carefully planning all farm work ahead of time, the aim should be to have the semi-fixed work which is work which can usually be shifted from one to three or four weeks—fit in with the fixed work which must be done at definite periods. Movable work like hauling manure, overhauling machinery, can be shifted to fit in almost at any time.

By fitting the various jobs together in such a way, the greatest amount of work may be done with the time and energy available. Although none of the factors mentioned is likely to entirely solve the problem, each one, however, will help to use labor to better advantage.

The next question which arises is the supply of farm labor where the normal supply is practically exhausted. The farmers then must draw upon other than usual sources.

The most important of these will probably be the following:

1. Retired farmers from the small towns and villages, especially at the critical periods, such as planting and harvesting.

2. Merchants and other business men from the country towns and villages. These can usually get away from their business for a few days at a time, especially during the farmers' rush season, when business is very quiet in town.

3. Boys of high school age who do not normally work on farms.

4. Other workers, especially those who have had more or less farm experience, who are engaged in less essential industries, many of which will no doubt be curtailed if the war continues for any length of time.

5. Women workers for some of the lighter work of the farm.

In competing for labor with other industries, the farmer must naturally expect to pay wages which are somewhere near comparable with those paid elsewhere, if he has to have help. Just how far he can go in this competition is a difficult question for him to solve. The present prices of most of our farm products is from one half to three times as high as it was just before the opening of the war. The expense of production however, has also increased, though just what this increase has been it is hard to estimate accurately. But with all due allowances for the increase in the cost of production and also horse labor, the farmer can afford to pay considerably more for labor than he is wont to pay.

In addition to the above suggestions, it is well to explain the machinery in motion for handling available laborers for farm work for the State of Wisconsin. Through local agents who are to be found in every township throughout the State, the surplus and shortage of labor is noted and reported to the County labor agent, who again if he cannot adjust the conditions report to the nearest office of the U. S. Employment Service, which is in touch with all state offices through the clearing house system. The Department of Agriculture has a farm help specialist for the state with headquarters at the U. S. Employment Service in Milwaukee, who looks after the general conditions and assists county agents in getting farm help.

News Notes

The Associated Press has been officially informed that the Ottawa dispatch to the effect that American troops were not to be brigaded with British and French, but were to be held until they became powerful integral force, was due to error and has since been corrected. The American troops are to be used just as rapidly as possible.

When Mary Roberts Rhinehart's great novel "K" appeared in McClure's Magazine it was universally acknowledged as the most absorbing romance of many years. Instantly it attracted national wide attention this story now is pictured in the title of "The Doctor and the Woman," featuring Mildred Harris, and comes to the Majestic for two days, Sunday and Monday.

GRAND

Norma Talmadge possesses the unique and enviable record of being consistently the biggest attraction at the Grand, the New York Theatre. When "The Moth," was exhibited there, it broke the standing record for attendance. When her next picture, "The Secret of the Storm Country," set an even higher mark, the management conducted an investigation into its books, and discovered that this star held the absolutely unique distinction of having separate attendance records there, which records have been unassailable until a subsequent production of her own broke them and set a new mark.

Here They Are, Sizzling Sisler and Ruthless Ruth,--A. L. Leaders

CHICAGO—"Babe" Ruth's remarkable batting streak continues to be the sensation of the American league. Averages released today show the big Boston pitcher, who also has been playing first base and in the outfield, with a mark of .476—sixty-nine points above his average of a week ago. The figures include games of Wednesday.

Home runs, triples and doubles dot Ruth's record. In sixteen games he has made twenty hits for a total of thirty-nine bases. In addition to three home runs, he has cracked out eight doubles and a triple. In his last four games he made nine hits, five of them doubles. Ruth also is having success on the mound, having won four of seven games.

George Sisler, the St. Louis star, passed Tris Speaker of Cleveland in the race for base stealing with 10 and Walker of Philadelphia took the lead in home run hitting with four. Shean of Boston increased his lead in sacrifice hitting to 12.

Gallia of St. Louis is the leading pitcher having won five of six games. Smith's Average .379

Continued absence from the game of Larry Doyle, the veteran second baseman with New York, who is recovering from an operation, has kept him at the top of the National league batters with an average of .426, although Smith of Boston is the real leader with .379. Smith has played in twenty-three games as against fifteen for Doyle.

Benny Kauff of New York, who is third in the list of batters, leads in total base hitting, having stretched 33 hits for 46 bases. He has cracked out nine doubles and two triples in twenty-three games. Burns of New York added two stolen bases to his lead, bringing his total to 12. Johnson, the Milwaukee first baseman, has a commanding lead in stolen bases, having pilfered 10 in 12 games, and McHenry, the Milwaukee outfielder, is showing the way to home run hitters with 4. The averages include games of Tuesday.

Zach Wheat finally decided to join the Brooklyn, but even with the heavy hitting outfielder back in harness Manager Robinson's crew doesn't look anything like a championship outfit.

When the sizzling Mr. Sisler came to the Browns from the University of Michigan he was rated as a wonderful pitcher, but it wasn't long before he proved a more wonderful batter, with the result he was taken out of the pitching staff and put in the game as a regular where his batting skill would do the team more good. Babe Ruth came to the Red Sox as a pitcher and has been a winner at his profession for several years. Last season Ruth hit .325. Only Cobb, Sisler and Speaker did better. This year Manager Barrow decided to use him as a regular so as to get the maximum of good out of his hitting ability. Today Ruth leads all the American league batters with a mark that hit .325. CALL MADISON
WITNESSES IN
LUSK TRIAL

Prof. Scholts, Mrs. Harrison Smith, Dr. H. Hanan, Summoned Friday

That the defense in the trial of Grace Lusk, the school teacher on trial in Waukesha for the murder of Mrs. Mary Newman Roberts, will place great dependence on the testimony of Madison medical experts became evident Friday morning when Sheriff Henry Ireland was ordered to subpoena six Dane county residents, among them being Madison alienists.

Of those subpoenaed by the sheriff but three had to appear at the trial Friday morning, the others being told to hold themselves in readiness to appear when wanted.

Prof. A. M. Scholts of the University of Wisconsin, was one of those who left Friday morning to testify in behalf of the defense. Prof. Scholts for many years was principal of the Stoughton high school, where Miss Lusk received her education and later taught school.

Others who were summoned to appear Friday morning were Mrs. Harrison Smith, 101 Roby road, and Dr. H. Hanan, a dentist of Oregon. What these witnesses was a mystery to them, for when spoken to regarding what they might be asked to testify to, neither had the slightest idea.

Dr. L. R. Head, Dr. Peter Evans and Prof. Arthur Beatty, were three other Madison residents who were ordered to arrange their affairs so that they could leave at a moment's notice to attend the trial as witnesses.

NEW BADGE TO BE WORN BY DRAFTED

E. J. Fitzpatrick Has Tag "I Am From Wisconsin."

Printed

"National Army, I am from Wisconsin."

A red, white and blue shipping tag bearing this motto will hereafter be worn by Wisconsin draft men when they go to camp. The first consignment of these tags have already been printed, and sent by E. A. Fitzpatrick to local boards all over the state today. Large consignments have been sent to Milwaukee to be used by draft men who will leave that city in the near future. Hereafter cards of all description have been pinned on the lapel of the drafted men, but E. A. Fitzpatrick conceived of the idea of having uniform tags. Sample copies of the tag have been sent to Washington. Probabilities are that the national government will adopt this tag in the country when sending men to cantonments.

NEEDED TO FILL
RANKS—WILSON

President Calls Madison Men to Get Behind Boys' Movement

President Wilson has sent a call to Madison men to get behind the Boy Scout movement in filling the ranks of scout masters which have been depleted through enlistment in the army and in giving financial aid. The call is sent out through Colin H. Livingston, president of the national council. It follows: "The fine efficiency of the Boy Scouts of America in serving the country must, of course, be maintained. The army and navy have drawn heavily upon its ranks for men who have gone forth very gladly to make, if need be, the supreme sacrifice. Men are needed as a consequence as scout masters and leaders to take their places. Money is needed moreover, to build this efficient unit of the national service up to full strength. I hope that all who can make gifts to the organization or serve as scout masters will feel it their duty to help to organize the hundreds of thousands of boys who need the leadership and the impulse of the Boy Scouts in order that the nation may have their intelligent service. "Anything that is done or given to increase the war efficiency of the Boy Scouts of America will be a real contribution to the nation and will help win the war."

SEEK TO CLEAR UP
ACCIDENT MYSTERY

Authorities Bring John Doe Proceedings in Jungbluth Case

John Doe proceedings are in progress in superior court in an effort to clear up the mystery of the identity of the driver of the machine which ran down Charles Jungbluth on the road between Middleton and Cross Plains last Labor day, leaving him for dead at the roadside. The proceedings were started by District Attorney Harry Southon, who has discovered two people who he believes can shed some light on the affair. These witnesses are being examined behind closed doors and should their testimony indicate what the authorities believe, a warrant for the arrest of the chauffeur will be issued.

When Jungbluth was discovered and removed to the hospital, his death was momentarily expected. He recovered. He told the authorities that he had not seen the machine which struck him and could give no description. Recently authorities learned a man living at Camp Douglas would be able to tell something of the accident. This man was visited, but denied that he knew anything of the affair. The authorities then learned of two others who might be able to shed some light on the affair. John Doe proceedings have resulted.

Milwaukee Road Told to Tighten up on Law Forbidding Intoxicants

No more will the thirsty who imbibe too freely be able to ride home on the Milwaukee road trains from Sun Prairie and those who make the trip and expect to come home either carrying it on the inside or wrapped up in bottles are surely going to be in hard luck for if the orders issued by the railroad commission are carried out, the Sun Prairie nuisance will be abated in the future.

As the result of many complaints received by the commission from passengers who use the trains that pass through Sun Prairie on the way to Madison, the notice was issued to E. D. Sewell, vice-president of the road that the statutes are being violated daily by the carrying of intoxicated persons. Instructions that it be stopped immediately were given.

Complaints received which caused the commission to act, it is said, were to the effect that men who board the train at Sun Prairie to come in to Madison, are so intoxicated their conduct is embarrassing

High School Notes
By Clarence Williams

The following teachers who recently pledged themselves to do garden work are now garden instructors for school gardens: Miss A. V. Leary, Miss F. Hargrave, Miss H. Kuhns, Miss K. Regan, Miss F. Edwards. In most cases instruction is given every evening after school.

A meeting of the boys was held in the auditorium on Friday during the twenty-minute period. Principal Wraetz addressed the pupils in regard to the four separate training camps for boys from 16 to 20 which will be held at Lake Geneva this summer. Each camp will have two weeks' training and the cost will be carried by those receiving the training. He also spoke of the opportunity of boys between 18 and 20 to enlist as industrial workers in a department which has been but recently established by the United States government. The plan is almost equal to training at West Point and furnishes a grand opportunity for boys to take up a trade as well as doing government work. The preliminary training will be held at Valparaiso, Ind., and from there the individual classes will be sent away for further training. All enlistments must be in by May 25. Boys interested in either camp are asked to see Principal Wraetz for further details. After the principal's address a pep meeting was conducted by Ralph Gill, leader of the boys' campaign in the W. S. S. drive. Speeches were given by the following: Wayne Morse, Thomas Coxon and William Collins in the further interest of the last week of the drive. All boys are encouraged to buy stamps on boys' day, Monday, May 20.

The amount of the W. S. S. sale on Friday with Dorothy Sumner in charge was $54.50 in 75 minutes.

Miss Virginia Wattawa has resigned her position as a teacher of the governmental work at Washington, D. C.

ASK ONE MAN CARS
IN SHEBOYGAN

Hearing Given by Wisconsin Railroad Commission on Application

The Wisconsin railroad commission today took under advisement the application of the Eastern Wisconsin Electric company, which operates the street car lines in Sheboygan for one man cars in that city. Objection was made to the change by City Attorney D. T. Phelan, who declared that the streets of Sheboygan were congested with traffic; that the plan had been tried years before and resulted in two horrible accidents; and that with one man cars it would be difficult to guard crossings.

Raymond H. Smith, manager of the company, said the plan was feasible; that it would save in operating expenses and that there was no occasion for apprehension. There were no other witnesses and Commissioner John S. Allen took the case under advisement.

"Pigs is pigs," and ten Stoughton pigs are Red Cross pigs. Ten little Duroc pigs only six weeks old and each doing its bit.

These pigs became the property of the Stoughton Red Cross through the generosity of Harry Howe, representing an Indiana, SIO company. In making a deal, a short time ago Mr. Howe and his prospective customer could not agree on terms. To settle the dispute the customer said: "I'll throw in that Duroc sow."

His offer was accepted and when the litter of ten was born Mr. Howe hunted up the president of the Stoughton Red Cross and presented the pigs with the understanding that they were to be sold for the benefit of that organization. A pen was built on the Brown corner opposite the post office. Saturday, May 11, the ten pigs were sold at auction by John Erickson and brought a good sum from the highest bidders.

CHILDREN FLOCK TO TENNEY PARK

Those on Extreme East Side Unable to Enjoy Public Playgrounds

With the advance of spring, and the eagerness of people to get close to nature, Tenney park is again showing signs of life.

On Saturdays and Sundays the park is full of children, playing baseball, tag, or hide-and-seek. Already the boys are casting longing glances toward the lake, hoping that the warm weather will keep on so that they can once more don their bathing suits.

Tenney park is also a favorite place for picnic parties. The advance in time has given the people a chance to go to the park after work and enjoy themselves many hours before dark.

Plans are now under way to get a man and woman to take charge of the playgrounds for the summer. It will be difficult to find a man who has already taken all those who had made a showing in athletics, and would be suitable for the place.

Children living in the extreme east side of the city find it difficult to reach the park during the week by play because of the distance from their homes. As a result they do not enjoy the fun children in other parts of the city have.

ALLEGED BRIBER
HELD BY OFFICIALS

Showman Accused of Offering $100 for Place in Deferred Class

L. A. Thompson, a traveling showman, it is alleged, attempted to be placed in the deferred class under the selective service act by bribing Dr. H. H. Morton, examining physician of the draft board of Cobb County, by offering a bribe of $100, but instead found himself placed under arrest and lodged in jail to await the action of the federal authorities.

According to Deputy Marshal William Toulton, the man approached Dr. Morton and sounded him as to the possibility of being placed in the deferred class. He offered the physician $100 and a meeting was arranged.

Dr. Morton notified the authorities and kept the appointment while officers were in hiding. Just as Thompson was handing over the bribe, it is alleged, the officers placed him under arrest.

Thompson was brought to the Dane county jail where he will be held until the arrival of a warrant from Superior where United States District Attorney Wolfe is engaged with the federal grand jury.
